

Home Breaking news

Rotman
Executive Programs

Home

News

TV

Forum

Subscribe

Contact us

REACH OVER 20,000 FINANCIAL PROFESSIONALS TODAY! CONTACT US TODAY

Big Six growth in wealth management points to more consolidation

Tweet

Share

by WP | 03 Sep 2013

AN INTERACTIVE
ONLINE
COMMUNITY
FOR FINANCIAL PROFESSIONALS

- QUESTIONS
- POLLS
- FORUMS
- WP TV
- INDUSTRY EXPERTS

First in a series on what the Big-Six banks' aggressive expansion into the wealth management segment will mean for the industry

This earnings season, the Big Six chartered banks all posted double-digit growth in their wealth management operations and with expansion of the wealth segment outpacing that of their other business lines, you can expect them to continue to expand aggressively. That will make for some challenges for independent advisors and mid-tier terms in everything from gathering assets to recruiting junior staff.

Get news stories like this straight to your inbox with our FREE newsletter

"There will definitely be consolidation, you are going to get fewer and fewer firms around over the longer run and the banks will do very well because they are well capitalized and can buy up all of these dealers," said Daniel Popescu, president of Harbourfront Wealth Management in Vancouver. "The banks know that the independents will have a hard time, and they're just waiting to buy these guys up, but the independent players will always be there as long as they are creative, are good producers and think outside the box."

MOST DISCUSSED

UK advisor numbers may be an omen for industry in Canada

Canadian regulators should scrap commissions and enforce a f ... READ MORE

The point is that by ...
Almost everything co ...

Google Glass to provide in-your-face market data

A new Google Glass app may soon allow users to have a perman ... READ MORE

I don't believe that ...

US bank exec used TARP bailout funds to buy condo

The president of a US bank has pleaded guilty to using bailo ... READ MORE

Are they required to ...

WP TV

Advisors often labour under the misapprehension that small c ...

PLAY ►

Stuck in a bowl?
Explore a sea of opportunity

Invico Pure Yield Fund

Annual Base Yield
8% Redeemable
10% with 3-year Term

Actual Return*
2011: 10.8%
2012: 9.5-12.3%
*Audited & inclusive of special distributions

Invico

MOST READ

Another threat for mutual fund 'guys'?

As the Big Six grow their wealth businesses, they ...

Big Six growth in wealth management points to more consolidation

The Big Six chartered banks all posted double-digi ...

Clients don't understand advisor compensation model

There is a huge gulf between how advisors are paid ...

Register now for $164!

InvestorForum
CANADIAN Real Estate Wealth
Vancouver Convention Centre | October 5th 2013

DISCOVER VANCOUVER'S
REAL ESTATE HOT SPOTS

CANADA'S
TOP 100
NEIGHBOURHOODS

Popescu is familiar with the independent, mid-tier and bank channels... and with being the target of an acquisition by one of the major lenders. He was a partner at Wellington West, which he and other partners sold to National Bank in 2011. He then spun-off Harbourfront from National and is now expanding nationally.

Popescu notes that the Big Six are constantly reaching out to mid-tier firms and independents with a pitch that it would be much easier for advisors to come under one of their umbrellas. "The banks will tell you that the independent model is very difficult right now – with compliance, increasing costs, IT and such, it's very difficult for independents to survive – and I would say there's some validity to that."

In a recent letter to members, Investment Industry Association of Canada president Ian Russell made a plea for regulators to support a "collapsing industry," noting that many advisory firms had shuttered or merged with bigger players. Given their recent earnings, Canada's Big Six would strongly object to describing the wealth management segment as 'collapsing. Indeed, the segment is proving to be among their key growth drivers.

In the wealth segment, BMO's earnings doubled in the third quarter, RBC's jumped 51%, CIBC's rose 34%, National Bank saw a 33% gain and Scotia's were up 18%. TD's earnings for the segment slipped, but this was due to the bank's reporting a combined "wealth and insurance" segment. With insurance stripped out, TD too saw double-digit growth.

The big banks have been an acquisition streak for several years – domestically, south of the border and internationally. National Bank picked up HSBC's Canadian advisory arm and Wellington West. Scotia picked up Dundee. In June, RBC said it will consider acquisitions of as much as $5 billion to expand its wealth-management unit. Consolidation will continue and may accelerate as the banks will push their advantage.

With many of the major targets already acquired, the banks will likely start looking to acquire more of the independent players, said Marc Lamontagne of Ryan Lamontagne in Ottawa

"The banks see wealth management as an area of growth potential, and they've already bought all of the major brokerage firms and quite a few of the independent mutual fund dealer firms –Scotia bought Dynamic Funds," said Lamontagne. "I wouldn't be surprised if you saw more of these companies bought by the banks."

Murray Callaghan who runs the fee-based Callaghan Wealth Management in Campbell River, BC, also sees

LATEST NEWS

If it's Rosh Hashanah, sell. Yom Kippur, buy. On Chinese New Year...

New research has provided a bit of empirical basis ... READ MORE

Facebook generation 'Like' alternative investments

Elite Millennial investors – those with $1m or mor ... READ MORE

What IIROC's 'lost device' really costs...

IIROC estimates costs of $5.2 million from the los ... READ MORE

Another threat for mutual fund 'guys'?

As the Big Six grow their wealth businesses, they ... READ MORE continuing acquisitions, though he doesn't expect it to impact independent operations.

"The bank earnings were good. A rising tide lifts all boats, so I'm not concerned. This is very much a business about relationships, so there will always be room for independent advisors," Callaghan said. Still, he sees more of a squeeze for mid-level operators. "In terms of the mid-sized firms, the big fish will eat the little fish."

Tweet

Share

YOUR COMMENT

WP forum is the place for positive industry interaction and welcomes your professional and informed opinion.

Name (required)

Comment (required)

☒ Notify me of follow-up comments

E-mail (required, but will not display)

By submitting, I agree to the Terms & Conditions

Submit a comment

Wealth Professional news Privacy Terms & Conditions Conditions of use About us Contact us RSS

Insurance Business Your Investment Property Your Mortgage Mortgage Professional Australia Australian Broker
Mortgage Broker News Human Capital Broker Marketing Services Wealth Professional Corporate Risk & Insurance
Which Mortgage HRM Asia Mortgage Professional America HRM New Zealand HRM Canada Canadian Real Estate Wealth

Copyright © 2013 Key Media Pty Ltd